Then . . .

Help keep up your soldier's morale---

Every soldier takes with him two pictures of t his uniform. He carries the other deep in his hea

And while he boasts of the snapshot to his bud he worships his heart's image: the sweet and tende on last leave.

To every man that image is different; yet its el soft breezes in happy places, star-light and perfum the picture the soldier must hoard against those no form the pattern of his dreams.

Perhaps this is why no woman can forget that, i woman is not a farm hand, a worker, teacher, house

And so she makes her unique contribution. Th the march. He hearkens to her voice in the night's l and tenderness is the future for which he fights.

These things he will remember; the sunlight o laughed at the little joke they shared; her hand on hi the pattern of her blue dress and the faint perfum er circumstance in life can bring.

All over the nation this autumn the soldiers ar America's story. With their men, the girls are str and paths, some of them, trod in '61 by other girls i

Soon—tomorrow, perhaps—they will be back i tending the humming machines, doing the million an age with a quiet devotion all their own.

But today each is the beloved of a soldier. An says "So long, soldier," with a smile.
